

Humane Beings

We all love our pets. But sometimes, animals can't find the loving homes they need. In this project, your students learn about the causes and consequences of animal abandonment, and study organizations that are working to help connect pets with people who will love and care for them the way they need.

This project builds toward a Furry Friends day where students host a few of these animals in need of homes and invite community members to see which one could become their forever pet.
