

Moments to Remember

Our oldest citizens have so much wisdom and experience. In this project, help your students learn from senior citizens by forming a connection with the residents of a local senior center. Students practice their interviewing skills and learn history as they discover how the major events of the 20th century impacted their new friends, then hone their writing skills by crafting biographies of these incredible lives.

The project concludes when students carefully publish their books and present them to their senior friends as a memento of the friendship that they've formed.
