

Share Your Stories

Teachers understand that learning is the world's most powerful force for good. In this project, students learn about economic and cultural differences between their local community and a community in a developing country, then form a bond of friendship by collecting and sharing favorite books.

The project culminates in a Book Drive so that students can share their love of reading and their love of learning with new friends who live a world away!

For more project ideas, go to
BlueAppleTeacher.org

